STEM WALL DETAIL

Allow space for casing material. In the example of a 2x6 casing, the stem wall opening would 3" wider than the finished door opening. Once the casing material is applied, the finished opening would be the exact width of the door. Example— 16'3" rough/stem wall opening = 16'0" finished/cased opening.

In the case of a stem wall that will protrude into the garage further than the framed wall, it is ideal that a notch be formed into the concrete prior to pouring in order allow the necessary 3" space.
